

Software Development, Testing, and Display

Part A: Introduction

This task is to focus on the process of software development and testing, and to display your software system.

There are the possible following tasks:

- (1) How to develop your software system: You may discuss some core aspects by providing some core code.
- (2) How to test your software system: You may conduct white-box testing and black-box testing on your system.
- (3) How to display your software system by using the screenshot to introduce your software system step by step.

Part B: Submission

Each team is required to submit one PDF file into the Moddle platform by the project leader.
